

This T/TA (training and technical assistance) activity is intended for those who have previously attended the full Energy Auditor class and need a bit of a refresher before taking an Energy Auditor certification exam or taking a renewal exam.

The goal would be to find a location in which we can review and perform field components of certification testing to become more comfortable with the requirements and process. Written test concept review can also be done if needed.

This day is flexible and can be modified to fit whatever your needs are.
